

The new Bushian Energy Policy unveiled

In some backward parts of Appalachia our drivers are gettin' poor gas mileage. My energy policy will fix that. We're gonna kill two birds with one stone , so ta speak, heh heh. We get a lotta coal at low cost to meet America's energy needs an' we level out all those roads so all the pickups in West Virginia an' Kentucky can double their gas mileage. It'll be flatter out there than Galveston after Wilma came through, heh heh.

After we take care of Appalachia we'll get to work on the Great Continental Divide. I'm a unificator.
